We want to be there for you when you need us to ensure you have the best start to pregnancy and parenting. Becoming a parent is rewarding but also the most difficult and stressful job you will ever have to do. Being a parent is rewarding but it takes skills and knowledge for any parent to do it well. As well as lots of love, most importantly, babies need a safe, stable and secure environment so that they can develop and grow into healthy and happy adults.

We will:

- Support you to do the best for your child and help you arrange childcare, if this is what you want
- Take an interest in your child
- Help you find support
- Help you link with other young parents if you would like to.

Feeling safe

We know domestic abuse increases during pregnancy and soon after babies are born. Even if your child is not in the room, hearing arguments will make them feel scared. If your partner is controlling with money, being possessive or not letting you see your friends, family or professionals and taking or checking your phone, this is also abusive.

If you are worried about how your relationship may affect your child, it is really important that you ask for support to make sure you and your child are safe. You can speak to your Health Visitor, Midwife or your Personal Advisor to get the support you and your partner need to make sure you can be the best and safest parents you can be. We are here to support you.

You can find out more information about support available through our Violence Against Women and Girls Programme Violence against women and girls (VAWG), Lambeth Council (<https://www.lambeth.gov.uk/community-safety-anti-social-behaviour/violence-against-women-girls-vawg>).

Here you can find out information about:

- Keeping yourself safe
- Advice if you are worried about harmful behaviour
- What to do in an emergency
- Contacts for safe spaces for you and your child if you need to leave your home

Our Young Person's team at the GAIA centre is here to support young survivors of domestic abuse, including those impacted by Violence Against Women and Girls (VAWG). We understand that abuse can happen in different ways- emotional, physical, financial, sexual, or controlling behaviour. The team offers specialist, one-to-one support that is confidential, non-judgemental and tailored to your needs. We listen to you, help you understand your rights and work with you to feel safe and empowered. Whether you need support with your relationship, housing, safety planning or just someone to talk to, we are here for you.
